

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus and method monitor the operational status of one or more other systems or components. Each of the other systems has a primary operational function such as message repeating, environmental control, hazardous condition monitoring or regional security. The systems or components feedback information as to their functionality to the apparatus for analysis and presentation.